

In this rotation, we were asked to animate on Adobe After Effects. The goal was to relate it to “connection”. In this 10 second clip, I animated a finger being connected and disconnected again. I followed a short tutorial on YouTube, teaching me how to animation objects’ motions from the background. The hand posed as my background while the index finger was the floating objects. I then put a filter over the animation to make it look more abstract and trippy.